Newark Coalition for Neighborhoods

Non-Profits To Direct Economic Development Projects

Several NCN member organizations are involved in planning and organizing economic development projects in their neighborhoods. These are examples of activities neighborhood groups can initiate to contribute to the revitalization of their communities.

Last year, La Casa de Don Pedro, a community-based organization serving the Lower Broadway community of Newark's North Ward, began a project to convert a vacant industrial building in their target area into 6 to 8 residential units affordable to moderate-income families.

According to Diane Sterner, Director of Housing Development at La Casa, their goal in this project has been to create affordable housing for area residents and develop the capacity of the organization to take on larger economic development projects in the future.

La Casa's work has resulted in their being selected by the Enterprise Foundation, a national organization which assists community groups in low-income housing development projects, to be the developer of 45 to 50 units of low-income housing in Newark's North Ward.

This is the first time the Enterprise Foundation has worked with a Newark-based organization. The process for selecting the organization was kicked off at a

Newark Literacy Campaign Begins Activities City-Wide

Representatives of NCN member agencies The Leaguers, St. Columba Neighborhood Club and Unified Vailsburg Services Organization (UVSO) successfully completed a series of workshops conducted by The Newark Literacy Campaign (NLC) to qualify to request intensive Campaign support for their planned reading tutorial programs. At the March 21 general meeting of the NLC it was announced that UVSO will serve as the first demonstration tutorial center for the NLC.

The purpose of the Newark Literacy Campaign is to advocate for quality literacy instruction, to promote literacy as a valuable skill, and through city-wide public awareness and education, to marshal an "army" of volunteers from Newark to teach Newark citizens of all ages to read.

Richard Cammarieri, Executive Director of NCN, co-founder and board member of the Campaign, explained NCN's interest in establishing a city-wide literacy campaign by saying, "Literacy empowers people with the ability to analyze and successfully respond to the issues which affect them, their families and their neighborhoods."

With the Campaign's assistance literacy instruction will occur throughout the city as resources allow. The Campaign will support some expanding or newly created reading tutorial programs while also helping organizations conduct reading programs on their own.

Editorial

by R. Cammarieri

Neighborhood organizations have a very special mission, one which demands high standards and consistent performance because our "bottom line" is serving some of the most basic needs of people.

The people of our neighborhoods are affected in so many ways by systems - social, political and economic - which they perceive to be, and which often are, unfair and insensitive.

Neighborhood organizations must structure themselves carefully in order to address such systems effectively. We must be able to work with representatives of these systems when we can, and work against them when we must.

Neighborhood organizations are a means to an end. Those involved with strong, effective community groups understand this. In the daily struggle to maintain our agencies, we must not lose sight of the fact that our aim is not primarily to perpetuate an organization, but to serve people. This may at times be a fine distinction, but it is an important one. If we ever get caught up in just maintaining organizations, letting the means become the ends, then we become bankrupt in a profound sense.

To remain strong and effective, neighborhood organizations must constantly and critically evaluate performance and results. The special nature of our work demands the highest level of intellectual rigor, professionalism and integrity. The people of Newark deserve nothing less than our strongest commitment to these standards.

The Network is published on a quarterly basis as a means of sharing information about issues and programs that affect our neighborhoods. We hope The Network will promote discussion among Newark residents on issues that are raised. We encourage residents to become involved in local community-based organizations working to address these issues.

An Interview With Rebecca Andrade

Rebecca Doggett Andrade is one of the founding board members of the Newark Coalition for Neighborhoods. She is a founder of Tri-City Union for Progress and served as its Executive Director for over 10 years. She has worked as Director of Citizens Services for Essex County and is currently Director of Personnel for the Port Authority. This is the first of a two part interview with Ms. Andrade in which she talks about the early days of NCN.

What prompted the formation of NCN in 1977?

NCN was an idea whose time had come. People involved in neighborhood organizations talked about the need to get together to identify common problems and areas of mutual interest.

The seven or eight groups that formed the core of NCN tried to identify the most pressing issues from each neighborhood. It gave us a sense of how much we could cover as a coalition.

The strongest motivation was concern over the use of CDBG funds. We felt that CDBG funds could provide important resources to revitalize our neighborhoods. We had become frustrated in our efforts to convince city government that a neighborhood policy should exist that would provide monies both for direct services and planning revitalization activities.

What were some of the difficulties you encountered in building a coalition of neighborhood groups?

The main struggle was determining the central focus for NCN; whether it should be broad issues or neighborhood specific issues. The next struggle was to set a common enough agenda to give organizations city-wide a reason to belong, and to be actively involved in the coalition.

How should government relate to neighborhood groups in serving the needs of neighborhood residents?

Once Tri-City did a neighborhood survey that revealed 75% of the people in that area rely on some form of public assistance as their major source of income. We couldn't talk about neighborhood revitalization until we examined the impact of these public agencies and how we could get them to have a positive impact.

In the five years I worked with the Essex County government, I felt I was trying to do something inside that we could never get City government to do. I worked to develop a policy related to the kinds of things that government should use resources of neighborhood organizations to do: to solve neighborhood problems and deliver services to neighborhood people. We focused on neighborhood based service delivery.

Agencias Comunitarias Dirigen Proyectos de Desarrollo Económico

Varios miembros de NCN están envueltos en la organización de proyectos para fomentar la economía en sus vecindarios. Estos son ejemplos de las actividades que grupos comunitarios pueden iniciar para contribuir a la revitalización de la comunidad.

El año pasado La Casa de Don Pedro, una organización comunitaria que sirve al Bajo Broadway en el norte de Newark comenzó un proyecto que convertirá un edificio industrial vacante en 6 u 8 unidades de vivienda diseñadas para familias de ingresos moderados. Según Diane Sterner, Directora del Programa de Fomento Económico y Vivienda de la Casa, la meta de dicho proyecto ha sido crear vivienda a precios módicos para los residentes del área y desarrollar la capacidad de la organización a sobrellevar mayores proyectos de fomento económico en el futuro.

La labor de La Casa ha resultado en el ser seleccionada por la Enterprise Foundation, una organización nacional que ayuda a grupos comunitarios en proyectos de vivienda, para crear de 45 a 50 unidades de vivienda a bajo costo en el norte de Newark.

El apoyo de la Enterprise Foundation en proyectos para el fomento de la vivienda a bajo costo llena una necesidad crítica en Newark. Según la Srta. Sterner a la luz de los cortes federales, "de la única manera que La Casa puede aspirar a crear vivienda para familias de recursos limitados es con la ayuda de un grupo como la Enterprise Foundation.

Esta es la primera vez que la Enterprise Foundation trabaja con una organización comunitaria en Newark. La labor de La Casa al crear 45 o 50 unidades de vivienda representa la primera fase de un plan de dos años de la Enterprise Foundation de patrocinar la construcción de 200 unidades residenciales a bajo costo en Newark.

El Protestant Community Centers, Inc. (P.C.C.I.), organización comunitaria que sirve partes del centro y bajo oeste en Newark, está planificando un proyecto de fomento económico que enfatizará la revitalización y la expansión de pequeñas empresas locales. Piensan establecer un restaurante, una industria de cerrajería y la imprenta en un área de dos cuadras del distrito comercial del

Campaña de Alfabetización Empieza Actividades

Miembros de NCN tales como Los Leaguers, St. Columba Neighborhood Club y Unified Vailsburg Services Organization han tenido éxito al finalizar una serie de talleres llevados a cabo por la Campaña de Alfabetización de Newark para recibir el apoyo intensivo de la Campaña para los programas de clases particulares de lectura que se proponen.

El propósito de la Campaña de Alfabetización es abogar por una educación de calidad promover la lectura y escritura como destrezas valiosas y a través de la conscientización e instrucción pública formar un "ejército" de voluntarios para enseñar a los ciudadanos de Newark de todas las edades a leer.

Richard Cammarieri, Director Ejecutivo de NCN, co-fundador y miembro de la Campaña, explicó el interés de NCN en establecer una campaña de alfabetización a nivel local al decir, "la alfabetización habilita al público con la facultad de analizar y responder con éxito a aquellos asuntos que les afectan tanto a ellos, como a sus familias y vecindarios."

En 1984 NCN junto con la Association for Children of NJ, Mutual Benefit Life y "Reading Naturally," co-fundó la Campaña de Alfabetización de Newark. Con la ayuda de la Campaña se podrá enseñar a través de la ciudad hasta que los recursos lo permitan. La Campaña pretende apoyar algunos viejo y nuevo programas de clases particulares de lectura y ayudar organizaciones a conducir programas independientes. La Campaña es una organización independiente y de fines no lucrativos que iniciará su trabajo de advocacia y educación esta primavera.

Ya que las organizaciones comunitarias están al servicio de las necesidades más básicas de la gente, estas tienen una misión muy especial que exige un alto nivel de estándares y ejecución constante.

Nuestros vecindarios son afectados por factores sociales, políticos y económicos que son percibidos como y a menudo son injustos e insensitivos. Las organizaciones comunitarias deben ser estructuradas cuidadosamente para poder dirigirse a dichos factores eficazmente. Debemos de trabajar con los representantes del sistema cuando podemos; en contra de estos cuando debemos.

Las organizaciones comunitarias son el medio a un fin. En la lucha diaria por mantener nuestras agencias, no debemos perder vista del hecho de que nuestra meta no es la de perpetuar la organización sino la de servir la comunidad.

Para mantener la fuerza y eficacia, las organizaciones comunitarias deben constante y críticamente evaluar el papel que desempeñan y sus resultados. La naturaleza especial de nuestro trabajo requiere el más alto nivel de rigor intelectual, profesionalismo e integridad. Los residentes de Newark se merecen nada menos que nuestro más alto compromiso a dichos estándares.

In January, City-wide auditions were held by NCN and Newark MediaWorks to select a pool of community news reporters and a co-host for the programs. Protestant Community Centers, Inc. (P.C.C.I.), serving portions of the Central and lower West Wards, is planning a two-pronged economic development project focusing on commercial revitalization and the expansion of local small business ventures. They plan to establish a family restaurant, locksmith industry and a printing business in a two block section of the Orange Street neighborhood commercial district.

Through these projects P.C.C.I.

seeks to counter neighborhood deterioration and business abandonment by providing new or restored market resources, provide apprenticeship training and develop local employment opportunities.

St. Columba Neighborhood Club, located in the South Broad St./Lincoln Park district of Newark, has initiated a commercial and residential development project with a building in their target area. St. Columba will work with a local restaurant to upgrade its facilities and direct the rehabilitation of 4 units for low-income housing in the same building. Serving as sponsor/technical assistant, the Neighborhood Club hopes to add to needed housing and commercial development for area residents.

What is your experience in working with community-based organizations to provide community service?

When I left county government we were working with over a hundred neighborhood groups and other non-profits, administering at least 10 or 11 million dollars of services which were contracted through non-profits. These were complex, demanding services and were delivered with a high level of productivity and sensitivity by community-based organizations.

I'm convinced the system works and could be used in housing and other areas as well. Newark is one of the few cities where this isn't being done on some scale.

Why is this not being done in Newark?

You need to have committed leadership: a city administration and council that believes in the concept and are willing to vote to put the structure in place, vote for those kinds of programs to go forward and press to make sure their staff work to support the neighborhood groups. Monitoring and technical assistance needs to be provided to these neighborhood groups. Governments role should be to be in the background backing up these kinds of services to people, while community-based organizations actually deliver the services. It's really a question of mentality and leadership and until we really have that orientation in our leadership in Newark, I don't think it's going to happen.
